NOURISHING
THE ENTREPRENEURIAL SPIRIT
A Personal Coach Dedicated to Your Nutrition

Since the company was founded in 1980, Herbalife Nutrition has been driven to nourish the potential in everyone. Our great-tasting, science-backed nutrition products are available exclusively through Herbalife Nutrition independent distributors, who are entrepreneurs dedicated to supporting their customers’ nutrition and well-being goals. Independent distributors combine their passion for nutrition with the education, training and support they receive from the distributor community and the company.

Our independent distributors don’t just sell products, they help people achieve personal, economic, and nutrition results.
The Business of Nourishing People

In addition to selling products, Herbalife Nutrition independent distributors provide a person-to-person, high-touch experience that includes motivation and support to help their customers nourish their potential. This is what positively differentiates us.

Some independent distributors use their experience to build sales organizations that can grow while others simply focus on selling Herbalife Nutrition products to their communities around the world. Either way, Herbalife Nutrition provides people who are looking for a business opportunity with the flexibility to build a business that meets their individual needs.

Independent distributors who choose to build a sales organization provide guidance, support, and insight to those in their organization, and in return, are eligible to earn a commission and bonuses based on the sales of their team members.
Personalized Business Opportunities to Meet Personal Needs

Whether it’s a side hustle or a full-time gig, Herbalife Nutrition independent distributors have the freedom to decide when, where, and how they work. Businesses can range from selling products directly to family and friends to opening a physical location or creating online communities. If they decide that the Herbalife Nutrition business opportunity is not for them, they can cancel their distributorship for a full refund. This flexibility allows independent distributors to set their own terms and work as much as they wish, giving them the opportunity to take charge and be their own boss.
Herbalife Nutrition: Supporting Independent Distributors Every Step of the Way

A Partnership Between Enterprise and Entrepreneurs

In more than 90 countries around the globe, the Herbalife Nutrition corporate team partners with independent distributors, providing them with support to help build their business. Through world-class product information from our doctors and scientists, nutrition and coaching education from our experts, and cutting-edge technology designed to make the sales process and distributor support seamless, Herbalife Nutrition is there every step of the way.

That’s because our number one focus is empowering our independent distributors.
A Global Community Rooting for Your Success

Herbalife Nutrition independent distributors are part of a global community of entrepreneurs dedicated to helping each other be successful. They constantly expand the methods they use to engage and train each other as well as their customers. From online webinars to in-person conferences and seminars, they’re always exploring new ways to strengthen their skills and translate their expertise into opportunities.
Together, we can
Nourish lives.
Nourish communities.
Nourish the world.
